Guildford, Eng., Sept. 10.—The wedding jewels of Mrs. John Ward, who was Miss Jean Reid, daughter of the American ambassador, almost fell a prey to burglars last night. Thieves entered Mrs. Ward's apartment and secured gems and wedding gifts worth a vast fortune. So hurried was the flight of the burglars that they took with them only a few small pieces worth about $500.

Alton railroad. Judges Grosscup, Seaman and Baker will hear the arguments later and the decision whether or not they will revise their former opinion is expected some time in October. ## MYSTERY

Of the Rustin Mur- der is Still Unsolved

CORONER'S JURY REPORT

Recommend A Thorough Investigation of Chas. Davis be Made

Death Was Useless as Most of Insurance Policies Had Lapsed.

Omaha, Sept. 10.—Charles Edward Davis was placed under arrest yesterday afternoon in the Rustin murder mystery. This is the first arrest that has been made, although more than a week has elapsed since Dr. Rustin was found by his wife, sitting in a chair on his porch, dying from a bullet wound. The revolver from which the shot was fired has not yet been found.

Davis is the "other man" with whom, Mrs. Rice testified, Dr. Rustin had a compact to give him enough poison to kill himself, and in return the other man was to shoot and kill Rustin before taking the poison. At the police station Davis was booked simply as a suspect and was released on $5,000 bail furnished by his brother, Fred H. Davis, vice president of the First National Bank of Omaha. A special session of the police court was arranged for Davis in order that he might not be locked up. Davis is a brother-in-law of the late Herman Kountze, member of the firm of Kountze Brothers, bankers, of New York.

The coroner's jury after deliberating two hours, returned the following verdict in the case:

"We find that the late Frederick Rustin came to his death by a gunshot wound inflicted by a person or persons."

GOV. HARRIS DEFENDS STATE OFFICERS CHARGED WITH THE STATE HOUSE SCANDALS

And Prefaces the Declaration by Saying He is "Speaking from the Knowledge of Personal and Official Contact."

Columbus, Sept. 10.—When Governor Harris said in his speech at Youngstown, "I am confident that the present state officers are both competent and honest," and endorsed the candidates on his ticket "without exception," he prefaced that declaration by saying: "Speaking from the knowledge of personal and official contact."

Let the public examine the facts to ascertain the manner of the Governor's "personal and official contact." Section 158 of the Ohio Statutes provides that all records of the State Auditor's office "shall be at all times subject to the inspection of the Governor, or any committee of a General Assembly, or of either branch thereof, appointed to examine same." Section 153 of the Ohio Statutes provides for examination of the State Treasury by committees of the legislature or by an expert accountant appointed by the governor to act in conjunction with the Secretary of State.

Has Governor Harris had such "official contact" with these two important offices? Let him be answered by himself from his own official documents.

In his special message to the legislature March 9, he said: "I am today in receipt of a letter from the auditor of state, asking that his office and that of the bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices, which is a department of said office, be examined by the Governor, under the authority conferred by Section 153 of the Revised Statutes," and asked for a special appropriation to carry out one of his explicit duties fixed by law.

Thus the Governor admits that he had not had "official contact" with the state auditor's office as the law requires, and shows that his attention was called to the fact by the State Auditor himself.

This was after committees of the legislature were examining the state treasury in a lawful manner, under the provision of the Statutes.

As the legislature refused to make an appropriation for the Governor to perform duties required of him by law, and for which he is paid a salary of $19,000 a year by the state, the Governor again, in a special message March 31, called attention to his former message, and used this language: "This proposed investigation was to be conducted under existing statutes of the state." All of which shows that the Governor still failed to have "official contact" with these two important state offices and their "competent" incumbents.

This second message from the Governor came after the legislature's local committees were conducting an examination which was so an-comfortable to State Treasurer McKinnon and his deputy, Green, and to State Auditor Guilbert and his deputy, Fullington, that they were answering questions by saying "None of your business" and refusing to answer or to produce important records asked for.

One incident will be sufficient to show the manner of the Governor's "personal contact" with these officers, which makes him so "confident."

Again will cite Republican authority. Before the Governor's second message was sent to the legislature, several secret conferences were held to devise some way of heading off the legal committees of the legislature. One of these secret conferences, only the night before the Governor's special message of March 31, was held in the office of Attorney General Ellis. The Ohio State Journal in its issue of March 31, and in the last column of the first page says: "Among the conferees who discussed the proposed bill yesterday were Governor Harris, Attorney General Ellis, State Auditor Guilbert, Senators West, Hypes, Patterson and Speaker Eagleton." The "proposed bill" under consideration was that recommended by the Governor in his special message, to call off the legislature's committee, and substitute a special committee of two men to be named by the Governor, and probably selected by the same conferees.

Thus is seen from Republican authority, the Governor was engaged in "personal contact" with the state auditor and other state officials to devise some way for avoiding "official contact" on his own part, and to interfere with and prevent further legal investigation of the State Treasury and Auditor's office, by the legislature under existing statutes of the State.

CHEERS

Were Missing at the Taft Headquarters Opening

FRIENDS PAY RESPECTS

Stumping Tour is Being Arranged for the Candidate

Congressman Longworth Will Speak Under the Direction of the National Committee.

Cincinnati, Sept. 10.—Candidate William Howard Taft's personal headquarters were formally opened on the eighth floor of the Sinton Hotel when he arrived there. From that time until he returned to the Taft residence on Pike street at 5 o'clock the rooms were constantly thronged, but on the surface, at least, there was little politics, a majority of the callers being personal friends and the talk being confined to general congratulations and the expression of good wishes.

"I do not know anything whatever about the committee and so can not say anything regarding it," was the only reply of Judge Taft when asked regarding the action yesterday afternoon of the Republican executive committee, through Judge Leides, its chairman, in appointing George B. Cox, R. K. Hypes and August Herrmann a special committee of three to further his candidacy. Judge Taft's manner, in answering plainly, intimated that he did not care to and would not discuss the matter, and did not desire to be questioned further on it. Mr. Cox said that he knew of no differences between himself and Judge Taft and expressed his willingness to serve on the committee.

It was definitely decided by Judge Taft today that he will conduct a speaking campaign of at least three weeks and the national committee will govern itself accordingly. It has been known for some time that Judge Taft did not altogether approve of conducting simply a "front porch" campaign and that he has been anxious to spend at least a portion of September and October on the firing line.

Congressman Longworth spent a portion of the day at headquarters and said he will be on hand for any work assigned him until September 15. He speaks in Scranton, Pa., on the 16th and after that, until immediately before election, will speak under the direction of the national committee.

It will be several days it is announced before any definite statement can be given out regarding the trips, which Judge Taft will make. An itinerary is now being prepared by the national committee and will be submitted for approval. Whether a special train will be secured and all other details of the trip are still to be made.

ELEVENTH QUADRENNIAL SALE.

WORKMEN AND THE TARIFF.

Hard Times Give a Chance to Inquire Where They Come In.

As these are times of enforced leisure among workmen, it might be well if they should devote some attention to the tariff.

There can be no doubt that certain manufacturers are benefited by the scheme of tariff protection. They know exactly how much they are getting. The cost of production is so much. The product is sold at so much. The difference is the profit. So at the end of the year one manufacturer finds his profit has been $1,000,000.

Another finds that he has cleaned up $2,000,000, and so on up the scale until we come to the United States Steel corporation, the net earnings of which are enormous. Then we have the Standard Oil company, the tobacco trust, the beef trust, the lumber trust, the smelter trust, the sugar trust and the leather trust, all of them monsters in size and monsters in financial strength. All of these are familiar with the operations of the tariff. All of them know so well how much they are getting out of it that they are of one mind regarding it, and that is if it is "tinkered" with at all it must be revised upward.

But what of the other class—the working class? Where do they come in on the tariff? It is estimated that at least 2,500,000 men are out of work, while there are as many more who are working half time or less than half time. The tariff is not finding any jobs for them. The tariff is not putting anything in their dinner buckets. They have been deserted by the tariff at a time they most need protection. They have been left to provide for little ones by appeals to charity. They have been left to the mercy of "the pirates of business," as Senator Beveridge described the trust magnates. Though the protective tariff is claimed to have been conceived as a means of providing "a full day's work at a full day's pay" for the workman, it has completely gone out of business so far as the great mass of workmen is concerned. The protection they were assured would give them "steady employment at a living wage" witnesses them in idleness and want. It would seem about time for workingmen to awake to the criminality of the protective tariff. The evidence is overwhelming that it is not only not their friend, but their merciless enemy. It not only does not guarantee them good wages and steady employment, but it robs them of a large part of the wages they do earn, bad times or good times. It works for the interest of but one class—the manufacturing class—the class composed of millionaires, multimillionaires and the near billionaires. The power of this class is growing by leaps and bounds. Every day it increases its graft, and every day its insolence becomes more unbearable. No share of the protective tariff goes to the laboring man. No share of it goes to the farmer. Not one penny of the hundreds of millions which are gathered annually from consumers finds its way to the pocket of the consumer. The consumer pays the freight in every instance. He shoulders the entire burden.

TARIFF REVISION BEGUN.

Do the People Want to See It Completed as Started?

The New York Tribune announces that tariff revision has commenced. A senate subcommittee has met in Washington, to remain in session actually three days considering the administrative phase of the tariff and the classifications. It is interesting to notice that the chairman of the subcommittee is that eminent tariff reviser Senator Burrows, who has for years taken no care of beet sugar, lumber and other trifles dear to Michigan stand patters. With him are such distinguished tariff reformers as Senators Platt of New York, Hopkins of Illinois and Hansbrough of North Dakota.

Within a week, the Tribune says, another subcommittee in New York will inquire into the tariff question in general and the relative cost of goods here and abroad. This subcommittee is headed by Hopkins, with Burrows as first assistant. They will be ably seconded by that rampant tariff revisionist, Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, who is of course entirely innocent of a friendly feeling for the greatest of tariff grafters, the steel trust. How long this committee will work is not stated, but not so as to interfere with Senator Burrows' campaign speaking. A third subcommittee is at work abroad studying foreign markets and tariff systems. This one is headed by the champion of tariff revision, Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, who is known to have no sympathy for that promising tariff grafter, Standard Oil. Aldrich, seconded by Hale of Maine, will kill two birds with one stone by investigating foreign currency systems as well as tariffs.

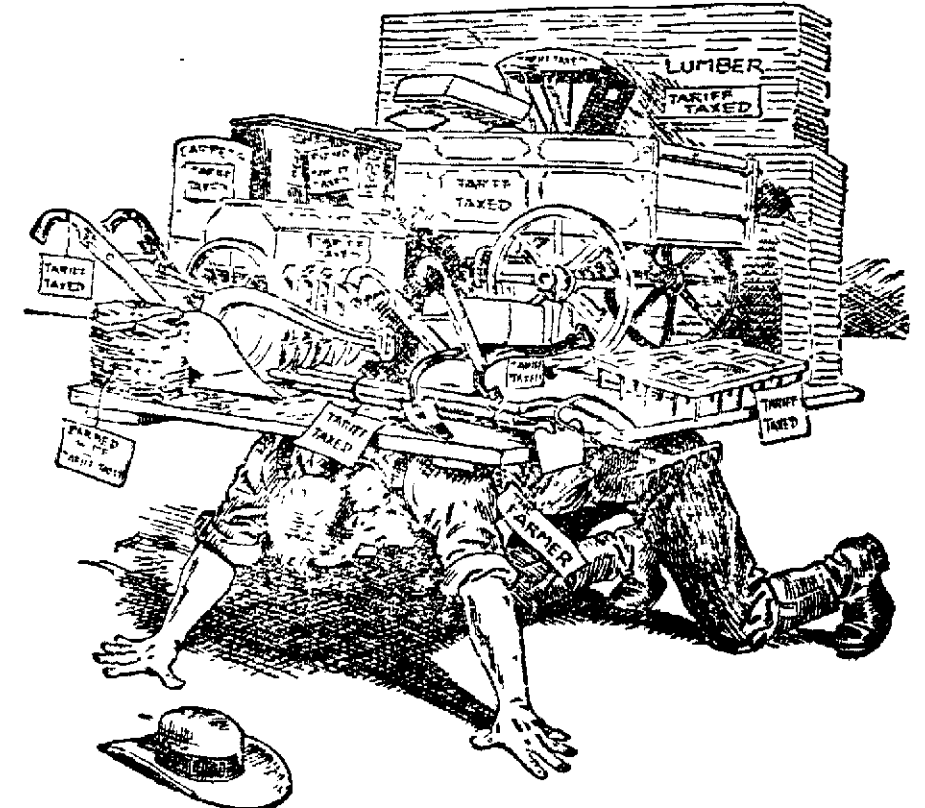

This summer resort method of preparing for tariff revision perhaps is explained by the remark of Senator Burrows, as told by the Tribune, that "the people expect the constructive party to evolve a tariff bill in which no industry is slighted or overlooked."

Some industry may have been overlooked by Dingley which needed protection and was too modest to ask for it. The senators are looking around for products that were put on the free list, by mistake, hoping to correct the error in the coming promised revision. Of course to really investigate the thousands of facts bearing on the tariff would take time and labor. The last German revision took a committee of thirty experts nearly six years and then required ten months' work by a reichstag committee. Our congress puts a few months at most on a revision once in a decade, and the subcommittees prepare for it on the summer resort plan.

With such men and such methods to put a party tariff bill through congress what could Mr. Taft as president hope to accomplish for the relief of the people if he were intent on getting relief? The few weeks that congress will give to revision would hardly be sufficient for the hungry tariff spoilsmen to throng to Washington and make known their desires to the willing ears of "the friends" of the tariff. These are the men who helped to frame the Dingley bill and who will make the coming revision if the party of stand pat associations is retained in power.

HERRICK AS TAFT'S TUTOR

At Sandusky Tuesday night where Mr. Taft addressed a campaign meeting, former Governor Herrick also addressed the meeting on the subject of Guaranteed Banks. Mr. Herrick, by the way, is also a Trust banker.

This is not the first time the people of Ohio have heard from their former "popular" governor on this subject. Mr. Herrick addressed a joint session of the state legislature last winter, in which he endeavored to reply to Mr. Bryan, who favors making all banks safe for depositors and safer for the bankers.

The views expressed at that time by Mr. Herrick were echoed by Mr. Taft in a statement given out while he was yet playing golf at Hot Springs.

Mr. Herrick and Mr. Taft's brother, Charles, are intimate friends in a social and business way. It is easy to understand how Mr. Taft arrives at his conclusions on this important issue, which he opposes. It is especially edifying to see the candidate for president and our former governor appearing on the same platform at the same time, in an effort to convince the people that it would be exceedingly dangerous to make banks safe.

Mr. Herrick's speech in which Mr. Taft co-incides, ought to read well to the 2,800 depositors of the defunct Farmers' and Merchants' Bank in Mr. Herrick's own city, as well as to the people of Niles, Dresden, Norwalk, and many other parts of Ohio.

It is not hard to tell why Taft changed his plans and decided to conduct a campaign of speech-making on the road. His managers found it necessary for him to go on the stump in a number of States that need bracing up.

GOOD OUTLOOK FOR DEMOCRACY

(Philadelphia Record.)
The Democrats expended not a dollar in Vermont, where no practical result was to be obtained, while the Republican managers covered the State with money and leading orators of the party in order to get out the last vote. The sole object was to influence that class of neutrals and nondescripts who want to be on the winning side. But politically the result in Vermont is a drawn game after all the Republican effort. To the Democrats, however, it conveys the lesson and the inspiring hope that by constant and untiring action the re-election of a Democratic President and House of Representatives is within their reach.

Philadelphia Record: Comparisons are made between the high wages of workmen in the United States and Great Britain. These comparisons are misleading in making no account of the much greater purchasing power of wages where there are no high tariffs and no trusts.

STATE'S LOSS BY BOSS RULE GRAFT

By the failure of the treasurer, auditor and secretary of state to comply with the law regulating the depositing of state treasury funds the state suffered a loss of over $98,000. But this sum of money was a graft for the officers concerned. The state's loss was their gain. To perpetuate this graft the officers with the aid of Cox and other bosses nominated their deputies to succeed them. These are the Republican candidates for auditor and treasurer of state. But there is a strong under current in the Republican party in the shape of a revolt against the state house Boss Rule and a number of leading Republican papers like the Toledo Blade, Sandusky Register and Cleveland Leader are vigorously opposing the election of the grafter candidates for auditor and treasurer of state.

And still with all the defense the fact remains that the state house needs cleaning out. When officials get to the point where they tell a committee created by the lawmaking power that it is none of the business of the committee or the public where the public funds are deposited, even when deposited in banks in which the officials are stockholders, it's time to engage in the work of cleaning up.

The idea of giving money to assist the public library has no doubt, come to many persons, who have been waiting for some one to ask them. Now, the proper thing to do is to send your check or money to the librarian or to the trustees, who are in need of money now. Bring or send the money in—it will be greatly appreciated. 31

J. B. FORAKER'S CANDIDACY FOR SENATOR

Columbus, Sept. 10.—Another "peace settlement" like that reached at Toledo, when Taft and Foraker were forced into each other's presence in such a way that they could not avoid being friendly, and it will be extermination instead of elimination.

Senator Foraker has been so emphatic since in his statements regarding "the Toledo tableau," and everybody connected with it has such a different story to tell, and nobody who was not present knows enough about what actually did happen to feel safe in saying anything, that to sum it all up about the only thing accomplished by the ambuscade into which Taft and Foraker were drawn was that Mr. Taft was told to his face, and in public, that Senator Foraker intends to be a candidate for re-election. This has visibly embarrassed the eliminator, who would not permit the convention manipulated for Taft by Cox, Guilbert, Vorys and Taft's brother, to indorse anybody for senator because they intended to put Foraker down and out at the end of his present term; and to indorse one of their own number meant to start trouble in their own ranks in addition to the hostility of Foraker's friends. No indorsement meant opposition, and Foraker's friends know it. The open announcement of Foraker's candidacy in the presence of Mr. Taft who is making "common enterprise" with Cox, Guilbert, Brown, Bieser and their sub-bosses, was more like a declaration of war than the tender of an olive branch.

BRYAN AND TAFT VOICES HEARD ON PHONOGRAPH

This year's campaign will have one feature never introduced before.

Both Presidential candidates have made records for the Edison Phonograph, which Records are being sold as fast as they can be made.

The circulation of a popular Record put out by the Edison Phonograph sometimes reaches several hundred thousand, and as Bryan has made ten Records and Taft twelve, if each one of these reaches a maximum circulation, it will mean that the sentiments of Taft and Bryan have been promulgated in their own voices in nearly every home in the United States.

A very characteristic cartoon, and one typical of the point of view, is that which appeared in the Philadelphia Record recently, showing Uncle Sam listening to Bryan Records on a slot Phonograph, while Taft is earnestly saying to President Roosevelt in the corner, "Why did you not think of that first, Teddy?"

The Taft Records, unlike the Bryan Records, are made from his speech of acceptance. The Bryan Records were made before the nomination of Bryan, and consist of extracts from some of his famous speeches and lectures in the past.

Almost everybody nowadays knows that Parisian Sage, the invigorating hair restorer, is guaranteed to cure dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks, or T. J. Evans will give you your money back.

But you ought to know more about this marvelous hair grower. You ought to know that in five minutes after an application, no matter how hot the weather, your head will be as cool as a cucumber.

You ought to know also, that it kills all odors which arise from the excretions of the scalp, which are particularly strong in summer time.

Everyone ought to have a bottle of Parisian Sage on hand, because it is such a pleasant and exhilarating hair dressing.

Ladies use it because they know it makes the hair beautiful, silky and luxuriant. Here's what a New York woman writes:

"I have used Parisian Sage two weeks only, yet in that time I find my hair has wonderfully increased in beauty, thickness and luxuriance. But what surprised me most was the disappearance of all dandruff. It pleases me to recommend such an efficient remedy to all my friends. Gratefully yours, Mrs. Maud Hagar, 617 West 136th St., New York City."

AMUSEMENTS

VOGEL'S MINSTRELS.

John W. Vogel's minstrels signalled the formal opening of the regular winter theatricals at the Auditorium last night. There was not as big an audience as might have been expected but everybody was appreciative and in a mood to be entertained.

Of John Vogel's minstrels this season there is one name to mention—Charley Gano. Everybody knows Charley Gano—or everybody ought to for he has been here often. And, as heretofore, his clever topical songs and refined style of comedy places him first in our thoughts as we recall the performance. His "Consolation" song made a decided hit with last night's audience, the localized verses bringing several rounds of applause. In his monologue Mr. Gano introduced "I Would Still Love You" an almost endless creation, but funny to a fault. His jokes were all good ones and that monologue continues to prove a decided winner.

The first part setting, costumes and general arrangement were good. The audience was perhaps, somewhat disappointed in the singers. The choral and concerted numbers were all well done, but there was a lack of spice and finish to most of the ballads. Possibly the most artistically rendered number was "Any Old Port in a Storm," a novel yet beautiful bass solo sung by Mr. J. Clark Oldfield, the graceful and artistic middleman. Mr. Arthur Samson's number, "Songs My Mother Used to Sing," was also well rendered and well received. John Goss' "I'll Never Be So Foolish Again," and Sam Harris' "Roaming Alone," and "I'd Like to See You Get Along," were comedy hits of the first part.

The olio was composed of well balanced acts, the most appreciated being the Lane trio in a dashing kind of rough and tumble turn. Rollen's juggling turn was good, but just a little old, while John Goss' rattlesnake act, which has been seen here many times, was well received. The singing and dancing comedians, Hays and Graham, introduced some exceedingly funny situations and did a dancing act that was neat and artistic throughout.

Taken as a whole, the Vogel show this season is a good average standard minstrel attraction, which, although perhaps wanting in some respects, furnishes an evening of clean, refined entertainment that just about satisfies the minstrel-hungry show lovers.

Mr. Charley Gano, principal comedian of the Vogel minstrels, composed the greater part of the "Consolation" song he used here last night, and is also turning another new one over to F. B. Haviland, his publisher. The new song promises to be a popular one. It is entitled "I'd be Like and be Liked by You." During his stay in Newark, Mr. Gano was greeted by a number of his old friends and acquaintances he has made on former visits here.

That vociferous applause from away up there in the top of the Auditorium theater last evening was not coming from the "gallery gods," as many thought, but it was the trustees of the building making a little appreciative racket from their new seats. Fact is, the faces of the trustees will probably not be seen in the orchestra circle this season, as heretofore. Their lease contract with Mr. Harris didn't specify where they were to be seated, so the management, chaste to seat them back of the third row in the balcony.

Manager Will D. Harris, of the Auditorium theater and Buckeye lake park, accompanied by his family and Mr. Bernard E. Smith, his secretary-treasurer, left at 5:40 on Thursday morning, over the Pennsylvania lines, for the city of Mexico. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Marple also accompanied the party and will spend the winter there.

THE PRESS AGENT SAYS:

The appearance of Lottie Blair Parker's delightful play, "Under Southern Skies," is an event that should be looked forward to with interest by theater goers. The company is a large one, numbering 23 people. The scenery is beautiful, everything used in the representation, being carried by the company. The costumes are quaint and pretty. "Under Southern Skies" is one of the big successes of recent years and no one who enjoys a first class play, presented in a first class manner, should fail to see it at the Auditorium theater on the afternoon and evening of September 19th.

There will be an entire change in program tonight at the Auditorium theater. The Dramatone company is well liked here. The rest of this week they will present Thos. A. Edison's great film, "The Tale the Autumn Leaves Told," talking the picture as it is shown upon the screen.

Miss Josephine Crawford will appear in her famous burlesque on the popular sheath gown, which will cause a laugh from start to finish.

New films and illustrated songs.

THE DREAD TUBERCULOUS GERM

98 Per Cent of Men and Women, Over 18 Years of Age, Have Tuberculous Germs in Their System.

Leading doctors and diagnosticians, who have spent many years in study and research, state that 95 per cent of the population over eighteen years of age have tuberculous germs in some part of their body.

Many people think of tuberculosis as a disease of the lungs only. They do not realize that it may occur in any organ or tissue of the body. It is only one form of tuberculosis when it affects the lungs and is then known as pulmonary consumption, but this same tuberculous germ affects the liver, stomach, joints and other parts of the body and thousands who suffer are told by their doctors that they have rheumatism or uric acid or lack of circulation, or one of the many well known diseases, when it is nothing else than the insidious working of the tuberculous germ, and the patient has consumption of the part affected just as surely as he has pulmonary consumption when the lungs are affected.

The enormous percentage of men and women thus affected shows the importance of taking proper care of the health before this dread tuberculous germ has made an inroad into the system beyond repair.

If these cases were properly diagnosed and Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey prescribed and taken there would not be so many invalids, cripples and deaths before middle age is reached. Fifty years of investigation and tests by eminent physicians have proven that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the greatest germ killer known to science. In the thousands of cases in which it has been used it has never failed to destroy and drive the tuberculous germs completely out of the system in a short time.

The secret of the marvellous success of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in curing and preventing lung and tuberculous troubles lies in the fact that it's the greatest strengthener and health builder known to medicine. It not only checks the ravages of the disease itself, but replaces the weakened, destroyed tissues, helps the stomach to more perfectly digest and assimilate food in order that more, richer and purer blood may come from it, and regulates and governs the heart's action, so that the circulation will be strong and powerful, carrying health and vigor to every organ and part of the human body.

GOLDEN WEDDING

OF MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH DAVIS
CELEBRATED AT HOME SOUTH OF NEWARK.

Elegant Dinner Served and Bride and Groom of Fifty Years Are Handsomely Remembered.

A memorable and happy event was quietly celebrated at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davis, four miles south of Newark, on the Jacksonville road, Wednesday, September 9. The event was the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Davis and only the immediate family and a few near friends were met to celebrate the happy event.

On the 9th of September, 1858, Joseph Davis and Helen Sutton were married at the home of the parents of the latter, Mr. and Mrs. Bentley Scotton, in Licking township, about a mile distant from the present home of the bride. Reverend D. Andrews of the Baptist church performed the ceremony in the presence of the family and a few immediate friends, and the happy couple immediately went to housekeeping in the same locality where they have resided ever since. Eight of the original wedding guests are still living, three of whom were present at the golden wedding yesterday, namely, Mr. George Davis, a brother of the groom; Mrs. J. J. Davis, a sister of the groom, and Mr. Ed Sutton of Columbus, a brother of the bride.

The forenoon was spent in pleasant intercourse and reminiscences of the past, and a little after noon an elegant wedding dinner was served. After dinner all present repaired to the parlor, where Judge Brister, on behalf of the sons, sprang a pleasant surprise upon the bride and groom of 50 years, by presenting the groom with a beautiful ebony gold headed cane, and the bride with an elegant gold kned berry spoon. Three children have been born to this happy couple, all of whom are still living, namely, Mr. Frank Davis, a prosperous farmer of that vicinity; Mr. Jas. Davis, the well known agricultural dealer of this city, and Dr. Homer J. Davis, a successful young physician of Newark.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis have been especially blessed by Providence. During all of the 50 years of their wedded life death has never invaded the home. They and their descendants are among the most highly respected citizens of our county, and now, in serene and healthy old age, and peace and plenty, they celebrate their golden wedding day. May they be spared to celebrate many more grand anniversaries.

ENTERTAINING LETTER FROM MISS MAY MOORE

SPLENDID DESCRIPTION OF OXFORD WHERE WRITER HAS SPENT SUMMER.

Twenty-Five Colleges in the City—A Fine Patrol System—Visit to Printing House.

(By Miss May E. Moore.)

Oxford, England, Aug. 28.—When a friend of mine told an Englishman that I was coming to Oxford to study this summer, he said: "Why does she go to Oxford instead of Cambridge? Oxford is so charming that she will not be able to study much there." I have certainly found it charming, and I wish that I could tell you even a little about its beauties, but all that can be written in a letter will be quite inadequate to give you any idea of its charms. All that I can say is: "Come and see."

Yet, in spite of the great number of things to attract the eye, with the Bodleian library, with its 700,000 volumes open to the student, I do not wonder that men come back here year after year, after their graduation, to go on with their favorite studies.

The city of Oxford contains about 48,000 inhabitants and has very smooth streets that are watered every day and swept every other day. The mail service is quite astonishing. At thirty-two of the forty-six mail boxes collections are made from nine to twelve times daily, and in a large part of the city it is delivered seven times. The uniforms of the postmen are very pretty, being dark blue with red trimmings. Their wages seem very low, the maximum amount received being 26s. a week, which amounts to a little over $26 a month.

The horse cars seem very primitive, but lines go in five different directions from "Carfax," the center of the city, and the fare is only a penny (two cents) for part of the distance, and two pennies (four cents) for "all the way." The reason for their clinging to the horse car seems to be that they are unwilling to have their streets disfigured with the poles of an electric line and so are waiting to get an underground system of wires with which two or three English cities are now experimenting.

Twenty-three colleges occupy part of the very center of the town, and one passes through one or two quadrangles, surrounded entirely by the college buildings, one comes upon a beautiful garden enclosed by a high stone wall which is almost hidden by ornamental trees. These gardens contain lawns and trees that are the product of centuries of cultivation and are bordered by beds of brilliant flowers. Merton is the oldest of the colleges and dates its foundation back to 1274. Each of the twenty-three contains some object of special interest and numbers among its former students some very famous men. Magdalen (pronounced Mandlin) has an outdoor pulpit built into the corner of one of its buildings, "Addison's Walk" of three-quarters of a mile of overhanging willows, and its beautiful "Founder's Tower," covered clear to the top with English ivy; Exeter has the Burne-Jones and William Morris tapestry, representing the visit of the Wise Men to the infant Christ; Lincoln, the pulpit in which John Wesley preached, and an urn containing the dust of Sir Edwin Arnold; Pembroke, two desks that were once used by Dr. Samuel Johnson, his china tea-pot and cider mug, and a portrait of him painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds; Keble, Holman Hunt's marvelous picture, "The Light of the World;" Winchester, the window by Reynolds; University College, the Shelley Memorial, and so on. While Shelley was a student here, he was expelled for publishing a pamphlet on "The Necessity of Atheism," but they now regard him as University College's most famous son, and have built an addition to contain the exquisite statue by Onslow Ford, representing his body just as it was cast on the Italian coast when he was drowned in the Gulf of Spezia. The body, in pure white marble, and having that complete relaxation that death brings, rests on a delicately tinted marble slab, which is upheld by two winged lions in dark marble, resting on a base of still deeper tone. Shelley is buried in the Protestant cemetery at Rome and this statue was designed for his grave. It was presented by the present Lady Shelley to this college instead.

This week we visited the University or Clarendon Press—a very wonderful institution, and the largest printing establishment in England. They have about eight hundred employees and turn out eight tons of Bibles every week—besides many secular books. This press is quite sufficient for itself for it makes all its own ink and paper and type, electrotypes, stereotypes, prints by the lithographic and colorotype processes, and binds its own books. The Oxford India paper has been imitated but never equalled—because they very carefully guard the secret of its manufacture—and was first put on the market in 1875. The paper is not manufactured in the building at Oxford but at Wolvercote, near Oxford; and the binding of the finest Bibles is done in London; but the printing is all done here, and the printed sheets, pressed tightly together, are sent down to Aldersgate street, London, to be bound. The skins of over 100,000 animals are used every year for covering Oxford Bibles, and 400,000 sheets of gold are needed for lettering the backs of the volumes—in addition to the gold used for the edges. Mr. Henry Frowde has been the publisher for thirty-three years, and on May 17, 1881, when the Revised New Testament was first published, Mr. Frowde issued a million copies between midnight and noon. The Chicago Times printed the entire New Testament as a supplement, and, in order to have it set up in time, the Four Gospels, Acts, and Romans were telegraphed from New York to Chicago. The volumes of this edition, if piled on end, would have reached a height of seventy-four miles. Before we had finished signing our names in the visitors' book at the Clarendon Press the gentleman at the desk said: "Ah! (seeing the U. S. A.) 'would you like to see the signature of a fellow countryman of yours?' and he turned rapidly back to the name 'Samuel L. Clemens, otherwise 'Mark Twain, June 21, 1907.' This was the week that Mr. Clemens visited Oxford to receive his degree.

We were so fortunate as to be present at a degree-conferring ceremony here a few weeks ago, and were greatly interested in the Dons in their caps and gowns—the lining of the hood depending upon the degree possessed by the wearer—and in the formal walk of the Proctors up and down the hall after each set of men had received their degrees.

There are many more fascinating things about Oxford, but I am sure that you have already heard enough either to make you very tired or else to cause you to determine to come over to Oxford and see for yourself.

Before closing, however, just let me tell you a little story illustrating the, to us, singular use by the English people of the word "fancy." The landlady of a young physician who had been studying in London for some months said, to him one day: "Mr. —, your letters are sometimes postmarked 'Boston' and sometimes 'Massachusetts'—why is that?" "Oh, no," he replied, "they all come from Boston!" "And where is Boston?" was her next query. "Boston," said he, "is in the state of Massachusetts." Then came the characteristic remark from the English woman: "Oh, fancy!"

Yours very cordially,
MAY E. MOORE.
No. 1 Wellington Square,
Oxford, England.

A special purse of $1,000 has been hung up for the fastest mile of the meet.

There will be eight events on the program each afternoon. Four of which will be the heats for the record breaking cars when they clash for the big purse.

Of Oldfield little needs be said. Through fences on a dozen occasions and with the deaths of five spectators to his credit, he still continues in the game at which it is predicted he will end his days. But being a fatalist he does not believe that his end is to come in a racing car.

The races will start at 2:30 p. m. each day, while excursion rates have been arranged for on all lines running into Cincinnati for those days.

INTERESTING LECTURE AT THE INSTITUTE

Miss Newlin Spoke on "The Fundamentals of Reading" Wednesday Afternoon.

The Wednesday afternoon session of the Institute was pleasantly opened by a vocal solo by Mr. Wharton, accompanied by Mr. Nusbaum. Miss Newlin then spoke again, her subject being "The Fundamentals of Reading." In entering again upon the reading lesson as literature, she spoke of its two phases, the thought side and the emotional, dwelling upon the former as the fundamental, upon which the structure of the latter must be reared. An analysis of the subject will show certain basal considerations in the reading lesson which cannot be neglected—the limit of the phrase group, the relation of the phrase group to the next, and the relation of the phrase group to the preceding group, all being of primary importance. Miss Newlin illustrated these points by many of the concrete illustrations which makes her work of strong practical value. Last, and most interesting of considerations on the thought side, she suggested the motive of the phrase group. The emotional value of the group, completing the analysis, and entirely aside from the thought element, gives the soul which is the measure of the literary value.

Dr. Suzzello's afternoon subject, "The Social Aspect of Study," continued his consideration of the teacher's work from the point of view suggested in his five previous lectures, urging a constant recognition of social conditions. He spoke again of the varying aspects of the school system, the department of organization and administration, belonging to the superintendent, the department of method, or teaching, belonging to the teacher, and between these, the course of study, pre-eminent from a social point of view. In this connection, too, the speaker dwelt on the sharply defined and differing view points of the old humanitarian culture and the modern economic spirit of technical efficiency. The man who lives a full life in the community must recognize that he bears a specific relation and obligation to every member of humanity, and so needs a common education and idealism. Besides these, there are specialized obligations which he owes to small groups; and his education must be such as to make the man socially efficient. In final analysis the old classic culture and the modern industrial training are found, not opposed, but complementary culture must be interpreted in terms of social needs, because the central problems of our life are grouped around our social and economic difficulties. Our culture must make due provision for our conscious needs. What we need is not so much industrial training, as vocational training. Lastly, the more power lies in any profession, the more society should provide that that profession should become familiar with human needs and demands. Our educational institutions are training a whole man for his whole life, and so should not dwell solely on the intellectual aspect, but should be broadened out in terms of the activities which it calls for in a man—intellectual, emotional and expressive. The creative expression of man's activities has been the outcome of modern needs, the mediaeval schools having dwelt only on the taking in process, while our modern aim is to draw out the expressive ideals of the child, for which we must go back to the emotional impulses. So, our schools must go to the emotional mainstays of life, it must seek a broader intellectual training, and by a successful blending of these two must seek the most thorough preparation of the whole man for his whole work.

Thursday Morning.

Rev. Mr. Thomas of the Plymouth Congregational church, opened the Thursday morning session of the institute with devotional exercises. After a pleasing vocal solo by Miss Vera Dee Jones, Dr. Suzzello, as the first speaker of the morning, continued his work.

Following his earlier work from the view point of sociological influence upon education, the speaker defined sociology as "an attempt to study human life from the group standpoint," thence passing to a discussion of "the doctrine of interest" in relation to the school-room—declaring this the last great method which American democracy has. With this introduction, Dr. Suzzello announced as his special theme for the morning, "The relative places of intellect and feeling as forces which lie back of action." In tracing out the comparative influence of the intellect and the emotions in human life, he declared that there never has been a greater fallacy in human tradition than the old adage that "knowledge is power,"—insisting that the intellect should be regarded merely as "the throttle of human control." If the mainsprings of the life are weak in interest, we find the distaste of intellectual pursuits, which pressing upon the close of the school life is one of the greatest weaknesses of our modern school system. But while we want a man with good, healthy human impulses, we want those impulses under control. The intellect must be so nurtured as to control the dominant nature of the emotions behind him, and you have the man of action, of sound moral equipment, of no wasted power. A perfect life brings the intellect and the emotions into perfect coupling, perfect adjustment.

We want the emotional life held under control consciously and consistently. We must not waste our lives in any type of misadjustment between the intellect and the feelings. Analyses of typical instances prove that we need both, trained in proper relation, for the formation of ideal character, and for equipment for social service.

Miss Newlin's work for the week dealing especially with the importance of the reading work in the public schools, she devoted Thursday morning to a practical illustration of method, by means of a class of fourth grade children. This lesson had been so arranged by special request of the primary teachers, who during the week have been delighted with Miss Newlin's clear recognition of the difficulties besetting this branch of the teacher's work, and with her numberless practical suggestions for making the reading hour both interesting and helpful.

Throughout the lesson, which was rounded, so far as possible, with the regular class room atmosphere, the instructor brought out, step by step, the essentials of an ideal lesson, emphasizing the relative importance of the qualities of meaning and expression, in the proportional value of these qualities which she had suggested in her earlier talk. The lesson proved Miss Newlin a perfect educator, as well as a successful instructor; while the children, entering enthusiastically and unconsciously into the spirit of the work, contributed their quota to a delightful hour.

Following Miss Newlin's lesson, Superintendent Simkins introduced to the Institute, Rev. Mr. Warner, of the First Congregational church, and asked that he address the teachers for a few minutes. Mr. Warner in accepting the invitation, pleasantly commented on the excellent work of the morning, and in closing his brief remarks urged that between teachers and pupils be cultivated more strongly "the spirit of love and sympathy which would make for a perfect school."

Though Kaler pitched a good game yesterday, and struck out eight of the Cigar Makers, yet he failed to keep his hits scattered, and this proved to be his undoing, for the callers got to him with the necessary bingles and won the game. Miller, for the Jackson crowd, proved a decided mystery to most of the Newark hitters and Abbott is really the only one that found him with any regularity, although Wratten did pick an extra base drive out of his assortment, and Kaler managed to smash one through the ground guarded by Lindsay and Newham.

The game wasn't particularly fast or exciting, although there was some pretty fielding done by both teams. Newham and Fink shining for the visitors, while Pinkney and McClintock did some nice work for the local gang. McClintock was in the game every minute of the time, and his support of Kaler was a really marvelous thing for he pulled down several seemingly impossible chances and his throwing was accurate to a hair's breadth. The outfield had an easy day and none of their pit outs were of a hard nature.

Kaler started out as wild as an untamed colt, and while he walked several men, he settled down and did not allow a hit until the fifth inning, when three singles brought in the first run for Lima. In the eighth Foutz found him for a drive over the left field fence with Jackson on first base, and in the ninth two more singles netted the fourth run. Though Newark came close to scoring a couple of times fast work would always make the third out before a runner could be sent across.

The crowd was a small one, but what they lacked in numbers they made up in enthusiasm, and they did not stint their applause when a good play was made, and both sides shared alike in the appreciation of the fans. Foutz was compelled to take off his hat when he came home after making his home run, it being the first clean swipe many had ever seen at the ball yard.

Harry Trouby, Quinn's new umpire, made his first appearance on the local grounds, and from the first he made good with the fans. He is a clever umpire, and any mistakes he might have made did not affect the game, and he worked hard to be fair and to see every play. While it is the general opinion of the bugs that Hart is crooked as well as incompetent, Trouby fairly breathes an atmosphere of honesty and it was a decided relief to see him settle behind the plate for the first decision. Why Quinn puts up with an umpire like Hart when he can get men like Trouby is an unsolved problem. The ball never goes in any direction but what he keeps his eye on it and when a play is made he gets over the ground to render his verdict.

After sharp practice, in which both teams indulged, Fink went to the bat and struck out. Reilly followed and was passed, and quick as lightning he was second. Jackson was also sent transportation. Then a decided mix-up in the batting list happened. In spite of the fact that he gave his batting order to the scorers before the game started, Lindsay batted, then Sykes and then Foutz, though Foutz was named by Jackson to follow him and Lindsay to follow the right fielder. Trouby was questioned, and he stopped the game until Jackson came in from the field to decide on how he wanted his hirings to bat. Why Jackson did this is hard to explain, but at all events it drew him a reprimand from the umpire and a roast from the crowd. Reilly, who butted into the argument, was also called; then he shut up.

In the fifth frame, with one out, Nefau singled and reached third on Fink's drive into middle. When Reilly poled one out the Indian scored the first run of the game. In the 8th inning Jackson was walked for the fourth time, and when Foutz lifted the ball over the left field fence both runners scored. In the 9th two drives scored Fink with the last run of the contest. The score:

To Become a "Dutch Prof"—Abbott's Hitting and Others' Fielding Featured Game.

"Lefty" Cleon Webb, will make his last appearance in a Molder uniform today, for tonight he leaves for Ashabula, where he has accepted a position as professor in German in the High school of that place. He has the best wishes of his Newark friends for his success as a teacher.

Pinkney and McClintock were kept busy in their positions yesterday. "Cupid" handling seven chances and Mac eight. Neither of them had a wobble.

The error of Gygli happened in the seventh inning, when he dropped a thrown ball and Nefau went to second. The misplay was not costly, however.

Abbott was the heavy hitter of the day, and out of four times at bat he clubbed safely three times.

"Chief" Nefau has improved wonderfully in his hitting. Last season hits with him were as scarce as rain in Licking county, but this year he seems to have taken a decided brace fling.

LAST WEEK OF BASE BALL

Lovers of the Game Should Turn Out and Root for the Home Team.

The fast Lima team will be here on Thursday and Friday.

Portsmouth Saturday and Sunday.

and now he is meeting the ball with more or less regularity.

Reilly was fast on bases, and although he has an exaggerated idea of his importance, yet credit will have to be given him for ability as a ball player.

The base Smith stole yesterday was a clean swipe that caught the entire Lima bunch napping.

Thirteen of Newark's 15 assists bunched between Pink and McClintock. Wratten and Kaler contributed the other two.

Today is the last ladies' day of the season and a good crowd should be present to see the game. Four more games in three days is the limit for baseball in the Ohio State this year, and the games should all be well attended, for it will be a long time before the fans will see any more league ball.

It won't be long before the foot ball season will open, and already in some of the smaller towns the game has been played. Prospects for a good team at the High school are exceedingly bright and the candidates will soon be given a tryout.

NELSON WHIPS JOE GANS AGAIN

Colored Pugilist Knocked Out in the Twenty-First Round of Spec. Ten-day Battle.

Coma Arena, San Francisco, Sept. 10.—Battling Nelson clinched his claim to the lightweight pugilistic championship by defeating Joe Gans for the second time at Colma arena, Wednesday afternoon. The fight ended in the twenty-first round, when Gans, beaten down by a succession of blows from his sturdy conqueror, failed to get upon his feet within the count of ten.

The veteran colored fighter was severely punished, but the champion, too, bore the marks of battle. From the first clang of the gong to the last moment, Nelson forced the fighting, never giving ground, and gradually battered down his opponent.

Gans succumbed in the twenty-first round after being unmercifully trounced. Nelson in this round rained right and left blows to jaw and body and Gans sank to the floor.

Mechanically the now defeated fighter watched Referee Eddie Smith wave his hands, apparently too far gone to hear him count. Not until the count of ten was finished did Gans, his face terribly cut and his eyes glassy, attempt to rise. He realized, however, that it was too late and feebly declared: "I have positively fought my last battle."

Referee Smith, after the fight, gave out the following statement: "Gans was all in after the ninth round. In the twenty-first both the timekeeper and myself counted ten, therefore making Nelson the winner. Gans, I believe, did not know he was counted out, but it is just as well that he was, as Nelson had him completely at his mercy, and it was useless for the game colored man to take a further beating."

When Gans was seen in his dressing room his face presented a terrible picture. His right eye was closed, the left partially so; his lips and nose were badly lacerated and his face was puffed out like an inflated balloon. He gave out the following statement:

"I made one fight too many. Nelson is a tough boy and beat me fairly. I will never fight again. This is no Partis farewell, but in dead earnest."

Nelson said: "Gans was tougher than before. He was in good shape and he fought me a different kind of fight. From now on I will never fight a colored man again. I shook hands with Billy Papke today and we both made the compact.

"I hurt my right hand in the second round, but kept on going regardless of the pain."

MR. MILLER WAS NOT A CANDIDATE

While it afforded him genuine pleasure at receiving a number of complimentary votes for the nomination of state senator at the senatorial convention held in Newark on Tuesday, September 8, Hon. W. E. Miller desires the Advocate to state that he was in no sense a candidate for the nomination. The votes cast for him were entirely unsolicited, and are the more appreciated on that account. Mr. Miller thinks Mr. Alsford, the nominee, is a strong candidate, and will undoubtedly be elected by a large majority.

THE INVESTIGATION OF THE STATE TREASURY

An Astounding State of Affairs Disclosed ---How the Bosses Have Used Ohio's Funds for Private Gain

State Auditor Guilbert and State Treasurer McKinnon are Shown Up in Bad Light---A Huge Political Machine.

In a free government like ours, the people sometimes do not seem to exercise the careful supervision over their officials they should. This has resulted in many cases of disclosures of corruption and graft that are appalling when revealed. Usually the closer the officials are to the people, the more careful watch is kept upon them, but when the officers are far removed from the people, it is then that the people have not watched as closely as they should. In our own State of Ohio, within the past year there has been unearthed a condition in the offices of the Auditor of State and the Treasurer of State, requiring an investigation by a committee of the General Assembly, whose report exhibited an astounding state of affairs in those offices in which a huge political machine had been built up.

THE STATE TREASURY NEVER INVESTIGATED UNDER SECTION 193.

It is shown by this report of the special select investigating committee appointed under Senate Resolutions Nos. 58 and 62, and which appears in the Appendix to Senate Journal of the second session of the 77th General Assembly, that the investigation was made under Section 193 of the Revised Statutes of Ohio, in which the Governor as well as any branch of the General Assembly is authorized to investigate the Treasury Department of the State and look into the methods of administering the finances of the State; and that this power has never been used by the Governor or the General Assembly before. Nor has this section or the general power lodged in the Auditor of State been used to disclose or prevent the multitude of abuses which have characterized the administration of the Treasury Department for many years.

SAFEGUARDS PROVIDED BY LAW FOR OUR COUNTY TREASURERS AND COUNTY AUDITORS AND COUNTY AFFAIRS GENERALLY.

Almost every person is familiar with the fact that in all counties an inspection and thorough examination of all books, vouchers, accounts, moneys, bonds, securities, and other property in the treasury of the county shall be made by the auditor and commissioners thereof as often as every six months in each year, and the probate judge shall once every six months or oftener if he deems it necessary, cause an inspection of the office of the treasury of the county by two competent and trustworthy accountants of opposite politics without previous notice to the county treasurer or other persons of such intended inspection and examination. This is required by section 1129 of the Revised Statutes of Ohio.

Not only this, but if at any time twenty or more taxpayers of any county apply to the court of common pleas for the appointment of a committee of three to examine the books and papers of the offices of the county auditor and county treasurer it is the duty of the court to make the appointment upon their giving satisfactory bond that they will pay the costs of such examination if the court does not on the coming in of such report certify reasonable ground for the application. (See section 1131 of Revised Statutes of Ohio.) Moreover, that the people of each county may know all about its official transactions, the law requires the board of county commissioners (section 917, Revised Statutes) to make annually on or before the third Monday in September, a detailed report in writing as to the amounts of money, to whom paid, and for what purpose, which report shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the court of common pleas, and when so filed the court shall cause the same to be investigated and examined by the prosecuting attorney with two suitable persons to be appointed by the court. The statutes in relation to the county auditor, county treasurer and the financial transactions of each county are quoted (and they can be verified by looking in the Revised Statutes of Ohio) to call attention to the fact that the makers of our laws deemed it wise to have our public offices so safeguarded that the people may be protected from the infidelity or corruption of county officials.

NO EXAMINATION OF STATE TREASURY IN THIRTY YEARS.

It seems strange that we have gone along as a State so many years without having some protection to our State Treasury, and yet the statement was openly made by the chairman of the committee who investigated the offices of the State Auditor and State Treasurer, that in thirty years there had been no examination of the State Treasury as contemplated by law.

GOV. NASH DISCOVERS THAT THE CASH IS NOT IN THE STATE TREASURY---WHAT HE DID.

Prior to May 3, 1904, there was no law authorizing the Treasurer of State to deposit any of the funds of the State with any bank. Before that date the State of Ohio never received a cent of interest on any of its public funds. During the administration of Governor George K. Nash, he discovered that the money required to be in the State Treasury, was not therein kept as the law prescribed, but was, in fact, deposited in Columbus banks, and he immediately notified the State Treasurer, Isaac B. Cameron, that he would be given three days in which to replace the money in the State Treasury, where it belonged.

THE STATE DEPOSITORY LAW.

This agitation had the effect of passing on May 3, 1904, a law recommended by Governor Herrick, called the State Depository Law, which provided that the Treasurer of State, Auditor of State and Attorney General should constitute the Ohio State Depository Commission, who should have the right to designate such banks within the State of Ohio, as they might under the provisions of the law deem eligible to be made State Depositories, for the purpose of receiving on deposit the money of this State, upon depositing with the Treasurer of State ample security in U. S. Government bonds, State bonds, county or municipal bonds, or surety company bonds, in an amount equal to the amount of money to be deposited with such bank, conditioned for safe keeping and payment to the Treasurer of State on his written order for the money which might be deposited with such banks. Said law further provided that interest should be paid upon daily balances at the rate of not less than 2 per cent., per annum, payable quarterly on the first Monday in February, May, August and November in each year, or at any time when the account may be closed. It further provided that no bank shall have on deposit more than its paid in capital stock and in no event more than five hundred thousand dollars. This law will be found on pages 555, 536 and 537, Laws of Ohio, Volume 97.

STATE AUDITOR GUILBERT AND HIS HUGE POLITICAL MACHINE---28 YEARS IN PUBLIC OFFICE---HIS TREMENDOUS POWERS.

For many years the dominating force in the State House at Columbus, and the man who has built up the greatest political machine the State of Ohio has ever known is the present Auditor of State, Walter D. Guilbert. Starting in politics in 1881 as county auditor of Noble county, he held that office for two terms of three years each, and one year by extension, making seven years he held the office of county auditor, and in 1888, prior to the expiration of his term of office as county auditor, he was appointed deputy State Auditor by the then Auditor of State, Ebenezer W. Poe, which office he held until he (Guilbert) was elected Auditor of State in 1893, and to which position he has been elected three times, with an extension of one year in his last term by reason of the constitutional amendment extending all State offices, so that when he lays down the reins of office, he will have served twenty-eight years as a public officer, or within five years of the average human life, during which time he is estimated he has drawn in the neighborhood of one hundred and twenty-five thousand ($125,000) dollars in salary from public treasuries.

When he came into office the office of Auditor of State was a comparatively small bureau with a very few clerks and yet today Guilbert has the appointment and direction of not less than 240 officers, and has seized the taxing machinery of the State and placed it under his control. Guilbert became a great power politically and made and unmade various officials; but the officials he was most interested in were the Auditor of State, Treasurer of State and Attorney General, for the reason that to these three officials have been conferred numerous powers as taxing boards. An examination of the laws conferring power on these officials shows there are nine different boards and that almost every corporation is assessed or equalized for taxation by them.

Thus we have vested in the hands of the Auditor of State, Attorney General and Treasurer of State a financial and political power unparalleled in America.

It is not only a political and spoils system; it is a financial system; it makes available not only the corporate wealth, but the political power of its directors, stockholders and employees. Before this power that of the Governor sinks into insignificance. Beside it the spoils system of any city is a matter of little concern.

GUILBERT'S ASSOCIATION WITH BOSS COX, BOSS BROWN AND OTHERS---HOW GUILBERT AND MCKINNON FORCED THE NOMINATION OF THEIR DEPUTIES TO SUCCEED THEMSELVES.

In building up such a huge political machine it was necessary for Mr. Guilbert to bring to his aid the political bosses of the great cities, and very early in the game he sought the assistance of Geo. B. Cox, the boss of Cincinnati, Walter Brown, the boss of Toledo, in connection with other lesser bosses. Through these bosses he was able to control political conventions and nominate whom he pleased, with the result that at the last Republican State convention, Auditor Guilbert and Treasurer McKinnon, in connection with Boss Cox of Cincinnati and Boss Walter Brown, of Toledo, dictated and forced the nominations of their deputies for State Auditor and State Treasurer. As a consequence Edward M. Fullington, the present deputy State Auditor under Mr. Guilbert, was chosen as the Republican candidate for State Auditor to succeed Guilbert. Mr. Chas. C. Green, the deputy under Treasurer McKinnon, was chosen as the Republican candidate for State Treasurer to succeed Treasurer McKinnon, and Walter Brown got his man Ulysses G. Denman, for Attorney General as his part of the reward for helping to bring about the nominations of Fullington and Green. What Mr. Cox received will be shown later on.

WHO EDWARD M. FULLINGTON IS.

Mr. Fullington was held the office of county auditor in Union county for six years, being elected to this position in 1895, and at the expiration of his term he became the head of the Accounting Bureau in Guilbert's office, a bureau created to examine the various county, city, and township offices of the State. That this bureau was nothing but a political machine is well illustrated by the fact that on numerous occasions examinations have been made and favorable reports rendered, whereas in fact, it appeared subsequently that the reports were untrue. Thus favored officials have been reported upon as owing the city or county certain amounts drawn illegally, none of which have ever been recovered, and none of which can ever be recovered under the law. Thus unbosomed officials were sought to be coerced by Guilbert's machine.

THE STATE ACCOUNTING BUREAU---HOW IT WAS USED AS A POLITICAL MACHINE.

In 1904 the State Accounting Bureau reported upon the offices in Mahoning county. A favorable report was made and officials were commended. It seems that certain taxpayers of the county were not fully satisfied with the report, and another investigation was instituted which had an entirely different result from the first. According to the version of some of the citizens, the county officials of Mahoning had been very active in securing the vote of Mahoning delegates in the State Republican convention for Mr. Guilbert for a third term as against Col. Gillette.

It was even charged that the bureau was used to coerce county officials to use their influence to get delegates to State conventions to follow the "Machine Flag." Third terms for State officers were unheard of until after his bureau was in operation and then chief inspector, State Auditor Guilbert, was the first to secure a third term under his beneficent influence.

HOW FULLINGTON COMMENDED HIMSELF TO BOSS COX OF CINCINNATI.

Mr. Fullington, present candidate for State Auditor, early in his career commended himself to George B. Cox, he having been detailed to investigate the offices in Hamilton county; but although he consumed over a year investigating the offices of that county, he found nothing of importance to report against any of the officials of Boss Cox save and except poor old Geo. Hobson, who was sent to an asylum. When Governor Patison was elected in 1905 charges were made during the campaign that the county treasurers of Hamilton county has been depositing the funds belonging to the county in various banks, upon which interest was received by the treasurers and not paid into the county treasury. These charges were made in public and were upon the lips of many citizens of Hamilton county.

WHAT THE DRAKE INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE FOUND.

The Ohio Senate in 1906 appointed a committee of three, called the Drake committee, who proceeded to Cincinnati to investigate this collection of interest and failure to cover same into the treasury, as well as other official misconduct in Hamilton county. The committee had only held sessions a few weeks when County Treasurers Gibson, French and Hynicka turned in two hundred and fourteen thousand nine hundred and ninety-eight dollars and seventy-five cents ($214,998.75) to the treasury as interest which had been collected upon public funds.

COX STOPS THE INVESTIGATION.

About that time the investigation was stopped by judicial proceedings instituted in Cincinnati, in which proceedings the Supreme Court decided that the resolution creating the committee was unconstitutional, and the committee could go no farther at that time. To continue this investigation in Hamilton county at the session of the Ohio Legislature held in 1908, a joint resolution was passed providing for the appointment of a joint committee to be composed of three Democrats and three-Republicans, and an appropriation made of thirty-five thousand dollars to pay the expenses of such investigation, or so much as might be necessary.

FULLINGTON STANDS BY COX AND REFUSES TO HONOR VOUCHER FOR MONEY APPROPRIATED FOR INVESTIGATING HAMILTON COUNTY.

This committee, through Senator Gayman, its chairman, made application to the Auditor of State for a warrant for part of the money with which to carry on the investigation. At the time this application was made Auditor Guilbert was not in his office, but Mr. Fullington, the present candidate for Auditor of State, and who is Guilbert's deputy, was in charge. Mr. Fullington refused to honor the voucher and to issue a warrant for its payment. The committee, however repaired to Cincinnati at their own expense, and held one session before they were again stopped.

THE FOSTER REUNION

On Thursday, August 30, the families and friends of the Foster family met at the beautiful country home of L. A. Carroll, two miles south of Alexandria. At noon about 125 went down to a table loaded with all the good things of the land. The ladies of the Foster reunion know how to cook and the men know how to eat. After dinner the president, Mr. W. E. Carroll, called order, and a splendid program was given consisting of speeches by the little folks, which were highly appreciated. Miss Clarice E. Carroll read a letter of regret from Dr. E. J. Hughes of Chicago. Miss Ethel G. Wood of Newark, sang a solo which was very much enjoyed. Speeches were made by Mr. Ray Carroll of Cleveland, Mr. A. Foster of Knox county, Mr. P. M. Jones, also short talks by L. A. Carroll, R. Sween, Henry Foster and E. Shaul. Special music was given by Mr. and Mrs. R. Foster and Mr. Webb, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all. The Foster family has not only the gift of speech, but also talent for music, and Mr. Robert Foster knows how to manipulate the violin. After the song "Friends, Good Bye," the election of officers for the next year occurred, resulting as follows: President, Mr. A. Foster; vice president, Mr. R. Foster; secretary, Miss Ethel G. Wood; treasurer, Miss Grace Jones. The next reunion will be held at Mr. L. A. Foster's the last Thursday of August, 1909.

JIGGERS

Are the Real Thing in Beech Wood Neighborhood and are Causing No End of Trouble.

"By Heck! I'll be jiggered if them pesky jiggers ain't captured the hull darn neighborhood!"

Jiggers! More jiggers! Jiggers again! Nobody can sleep in the Beech Woods neighborhood until a successful raid has been made on jiggers, for they are infesting everything infestible. The jiggers are so mixed up with the wheat up there that half the farmers can't tell which they're threshing, jiggers or wheat, and it mightn't be very surprising to find our latest bread baking a well cooked mass o' jiggers.

A Beech Woods family went to bed to sleep the other night and had just become comfortably ensconced on newly filled straw ticks when the jiggers got busy. The family slept on the floor until morning. Then they gathered all the family weapons together and went after the jiggers.

A well known young man was compelled to arise from his bed at the hour of midnight and seek relief at the hands of a physician. On his return from the doctor's house he passed the home of a neighbor and found everybody in that house busily engaged in chasing jiggers. The biggest jigger is believed to have been the most troublesome, and he was executed at dawn!

The Advocate's Beech Woods correspondent sums the exciting chase up in the following poetic effusion:

There's jiggers in the straw,
Lyn' low for you and me,
And wherever we are going,
The jiggers there will be.

And if in Hades fiery depths,
You're doomed to roam about,
The jiggers sure will get you,
For they're there, without a doubt.

RHEUMATIC FOLKS!

Are You Sure Your Kidneys are Well?

Many rheumatic attacks are due to uric acid in the blood. But the duty of the kidneys is to remove all uric acid from the blood. Its presence there shows the kidneys are inactive. Don't dally with 'uric acid solvents.' You might go on till doomsday with them, but until you cure the kidneys you will never get well. Doan's Kidney Pills not only remove uric acid, but cure the kidneys and then all danger from uric acid is ended. Here is Newark testimony to prove it.

Mrs. M. E. Manville, 39 Lansing Block, Newark, Ohio, says: "I received more relief from Doan's Kidney Pills than from any remedy I ever used. I was bothered a great deal from rheumatism in my limbs and back and was never free from pain. Although I used various remedies, I was constantly growing worse. I at last heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured a box at Crayton's drug store and took them according to directions and they completely disposed of the rheumatism and rid me of all the other symptoms of disordered kidneys. Although this was over ten years ago, I can just as heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills today as the results I obtained have proven permanent."

SCHOOL MASTER

Who Taught in Licking County Over Fifty Years Ago Returns From Illinois for Visit.

John W. Washburn, a grocer and prominent business man of Decatur, Ill., for the past 50 years or more, was here the latter part of last week, calling on old acquaintances. Mr. Washburn 56 years ago, clerked in the summer time in the McCune hardware store, which was then located in the building where the Trust company building now stands, on the northwest corner of the square. For three months in the winter time he taught school in the country districts.

The winter of 1852-3 he taught school in Newton township in the school house located on what was then and now the Chatham road, just west of the village of Vanatta and known as the Vanatta or Shultz school house. The winter of 1863-4 he taught in the McMillen-Vance district in Union township just east of Union Station.

Mr. Washburn had with him at the time of his visit last week a copy of the roster of each of these schools giving the name and age of each of his pupils. Quite a number of them have gone over the divide.

Mr. Washburn was born in Vermont, and before coming to Licking county taught school near Oberlin, O. The winter that he taught at the Shultz school house in Newton township he was dubbed "The Yankee School Master."

THE PUBLIC SQUARE

The grass in the space about the Court House is not pretty and is not a credit to the city. I doubt that any fertilizer for years has been applied to it, and during all these years the growth of the grass has been carefully removed. The result is an impoverishment of the soil. Two remedies are needed, the soil ought to be manured or fertilized, and it should be well watered. Possibly very frequent and copious watering would make the grass a lawn. Either of both of these remedies would be inexpensive. These suggestions are commended to the authorities who have charge of the park.

Squire Holton's Court.
James Dugan, a train rider brought in by Officer Andrews, was fined $1 and the the man was on his way to Shawnee,

1908 while attempting to alight from a car at the Fifth street crossing, the car suddenly started and he was thrown to the street sustaining severe injuries, for which he asks $4,000 damages. Plaintiff also sues for a similar amount on behalf

MYSTERY

shot about 3:30 o'clock on Wednesday morning, September 2, at or near his residence, 4108 Farnam street.

"We are clearly of the opinion that the shot was fired by some man with the intention of producing death. Although the manner adopted by the one by whom the shot was fired, it is our opinion that the evidence is too indefinite to ascertain, but we recommend that the authorities continue to make a thorough investigation as to the conduct of Chas. Davis in connection with the circumstances pertaining to the death of Frederick Rustin, and particularly about the time of the shooting."

The jury was not satisfied with the examination of Davis, and, after being dismissed, Foreman of the Jury Edward Haney said:

"We want to have another chance at Charles Davis on the witness stand, but they did not seem to want to recall him."

"We all felt that he knew more about the case than he had told, and that if he had been a poor devil without influential friends he would have been in jail long before this, and it was the duty of the police to thoroughly investigate his conduct on the night of the murder much better than has yet been done. Therefore, we make the recommendation that he be further investigated."

Indications are that Dr. Rustin died a useless death and that most of the insurance policies, to secure the money for which he died, have lapsed and are no longer in force. Only the day before he died one policy for $1,000 lapsed because of non-payment of dues. Rustin had told the insurance agent to call at his office the following day and he would make a reinstatement application, but this came too late.

Another policy of $1,000 was allowed to lapse in June. Still another policy for $20,000, an accident policy, would be payable only in case of accident, but not for murder nor for suicide.
One policy for $22,000 is in force, but beyond this those in charge of his affairs have been unable to discover any insurance which will be paid to the widow.

The belief among Omaha medical men is that Rustin and Davis were both crazed by the use of morphine and other drugs and that each was a suicidal maniac—or rather that, while Davis was crazed with a suicidal mania, Rustin was crazed upon the subject of having himself killed by some one.

Davis is 50 years old, and he has a wife and daughter living in California somewhere. They have been separated some years.

Davis has attempted suicide a number of times in the last 12 years. In 1896, in Whatcom, Wash., he stood on a railroad track and forced a train to halt. In 1892, in Boston, he stabbed himself seriously and was taken to Waverly Insane Asylum. In Bal-more last year he was sent to the Pratt institute for the insane. Again last year he was sent to an asylum in Council Bluffs.

Two weeks ago Dr. Rustin began giving him morphine and other drugs until he was insane enough for any act.

Public opinion is that Davis did not murder Rustin at the latter's request, but that he was at least present when Rustin killed himself, and afterwards he did away with the pistol.

Mrs. Rice declared that she has now no desire to commit suicide, and that she will become a nurse.

LICKING FAIR THIS YEAR WILL BE A HUMMER

Plenty of Good Races and $4,000 in Purses—Will Have All the New and Novel Features.

Secretary J. M. Farmer of the Licking County Agricultural society has neglected his growing cigar business to insure the success of the county fair this year.

It has almost been impossible to see him in the last three weeks, even on a business proposition. In the recent few minutes had with him by the reporter he said that the fair this year would lay in the shade all previous efforts, and if the weather permitted the attendance would be the largest in the history of the movement.

He has seen all the new, novel and good features in the various fairs and without resorting to any of the cheap subterfuges of the state fair board will hold the Licking county fair in her former place. The place she has held for 61 years or more—the first in the fairs of the counties of the state. It will be remembered that the lovers of the race in human life were told in inspired articles in the papers that a bevy of handsome young ladies at the state fair would be given police protection while they made a walking clinic for themselves in "directoire" gowns. Later, by inspired articles, they gave out in apparent good faith which was apparent and not real, that the fair board were to be enjoined from going on with the fair.

The latter was the more dangerous form of advertising because the general public was ready to believe that some victim of the last year's misrepresentations was going to get back by throwing a legal brick at the bump in the way of an injunction.

No need at all to resort to such measures and gather a crowd at the Licking county fair. On one of the best grounds in Ohio, this year they offer nearly $4,000 in speed purses.
The fair has seen 61 years of successful life. The second largest in area of the counties of the state, it is all fertile and from its genial soil and pastures can go any county in the state one better.

The dates of the fair for 1908 are the 29th and 30th of September and October 1, 2, and 3.

Horse bets in the United Kingdom are said to amount to over $42,000, 000 annually.
